ACCOMAC COUNTY, YA., March 16, 1875. The Circuit Court, held at Drummondtown, the county scal, has just closed its session. A good number of civil cases were disposed of, and only one criminal case, which was, after a tedious trial, decided in favor of the accused. The Question of Gauge. [From the Raleigh (N. C.) News, 17tb.]

The bill which was introduced into the making the gauge of all the railroads in the State four feet eight and a half inches, and preventing by suitable penalties any roads now in existence in the State from changing their present gauge, passed that body unanimously on Monday and was sent over in-mediately to the House, where it passed with some amendments protecting certain roads directly in connection with the South Carolina system, and having no connection with that of this State.

It seems to be a question whether legislaion after the act of change can be operative. If, however, the work of change was begun after a knowledge of the fact that a bill had railroad from this point to Charlotte. been introduced to prevent the fruits of the Owing to tremendous storms of rain decision of the Supreme Court, then it would the work was impeded and not pushseem that the Legislature was put in con- ed through with that rapidity that watempt, and that the parties concerned are an- anticipated, but trains will resume their reswerable for the violation of the law.

They felt that the for all time to come. There is naturally could not be regarded as entitled best interests of the State had been trifled some dissatisfaction with some few Eastern with, and its stream of property tapped in Carolinians. This was expected, its most vital point; that the State was cut of course, but I confess to astonishment, in two, and a wall built up between the East shame, and humiliation at the action of and the West, alienating the one from the the Legislature, frantically rushing, through other and transferring their interests to other | malice and spite, a bill through both Houses States, building up the cities of Virginia and in "two days," imposing a heavy fine south Carolina, and postponing forever all and long imprisonment upon any person or realization of the hopes, plans, and labors of persons that shall change the gauge of any the best intellects and most enlightened sa- railroad in the State, which was done with gacity of our Commonwealth.

The North Carolina Railroad Company, by what now appears to be a singular omission, bad in its charter no provision as to gauge. Built to connect immediately with the Wilmington and Weldon and with the Raleigh and Gaston roads, a conformity to the gauges of those roads was deemed a sufficient definition. That this was considered the legal North Carolina gauge is clear from the fact that the charters of the Atlantic and North Carolina and the Western North Carolina four feet eight and a half inches, or the gauge of the North Carolina railroad; thus taking hat gauge as the standard, and making it thereby the legal gauge of the State, in conformity with the idea of one unbroken connection through its length and breadth.

The establishment of the validity of the ease gives to the lessees all the franchises and privileges possessed by the lessors, no less and no more. If the roads above mentioned were compelled by their charters to State. The Cincinnati Enquirer gives this conform to a specified gauge, it seems clear elegant sample of the ammunition it will that the North Carelina railroad, under its light with if the contest lies between the original management, could not have done two old veterans: "By all means bring out any act which would destroy the business Two schooners, laden with granite from and jeopardize the success of those connectthe quarties of the Westham Granite Com- ing roads, for their prosperity depended upy, Riesmond, Va., are at the G-street upon a thorough integrity of gauge. THE GAUGE. We are in the wilderness down this way. No mail from the West-no telegraph from up that way-all in the dark. Two of our citizens (Major Hearne and Mr. Richardson) took the train last night for Greensboro', but were blocked-up at the Shops-the road 'washed" above there, you know-and they had to lie over, and came bouncing back this morning in the same train they left in, though a train at the same time left the Shops for Greensboro'. The thing is amusing. The Legislature are rushing bareheaded to head-off the gaugers, only they cannot get at them, and the gaugers are quietly working in the night-time, and have no trains running or telegraph. working at this end of the line. Mr. Bell's bill passed the House last night and was enrolled to-day. President Armstrong would have left the chair and taken the floor of the Senate in favor of the men of the East, but he saw the opinion was so unanimous that the bill would have no trouble getting through. There is much talk and curiosity in the city over the matter. A member has just said. "I fear Buford is ahead of us" while all kinds of rumors are running about One is that the volunteer company have received orders to be in readiness to go to Greensboro' in defence of the road. But we guess this is all bosb.

[From the Danville Register.]

THE CHANGE OF GAUGE. This is an event of no small importance to he Danville railroad and its connections to Richmond city and to points along the line. Heretofore it has been necessary to shift from one train to another freight and passengers (except when adjustable axles were used) at Charlotte and Greensboro' at a sacrifice of time and money and to the inconvenience of the public. So soon as the Carolina gauge is conformed to that of the Danville road there will be uninterrupted passage of the trains of the same company between Richmond and Atlanta, which will make the route greatly more desirable for both freight and passenger accommodation. The hauling of cotton alone promises to be an immense business for this company, and indeed the opening of an unobstructed channel between Richmond and the Gult Senate on Siturday by Mr. Bell, of Carteret, States will facilitate communications all along this line, and naturally increase traffic.

CHANGE OF GAUGE. GREENSBOBO', N. C., March 16 .- I congratulate the travelling public generally, and the shipping public in particular, upon the welcome fact that common sense and modern progress have at length triumphed over all fogyism-and a uniform railroad gauge is vouchsafed from New York to New Orleans by the change of ninety miles of track between, made by Colonel Buford, president, on the North Carolina gular runs to-morrow morning, and "every-The indignity to the State, and the ruin the thing is lovely and the goose hanging high." the sole view of obstructing, embarrassing, and preventing the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company from doing exactly what the highest tribunal in the State bas just decided they had a perfect right to do. TOBACCO EXCHANGE. RICHMOND, March 18, 1875.

During last week 519 prokages of leaf tobacco old and new, were offered on 'Change, and bids upon 207 packages were rejected, from which fact it is fair to infer that the market was in an unsettled condition. The question of amending the inspection laws having been indefinitely postponed by the Legislature, the tobacco market has been relieved of the last disturbing el-ment which had latterly affected it. The trade will now be only influenced externally by the condition of the mouey market, and questions relating to the present and prospective supply and demand will chiefly occupy their atten-
